

Kemper Station Trail Dedication

Friday, March 31, brought beautiful weather for the dedication of the newest addition to the City of Lynchburg trails system. City Councilman Burt Dodson attended the dedication and ribbon cutting ceremony for the Kemper Station Trail, which included a dedication speech by local trails enthusiast, Brian Knopp. After the ribbon cutting, guests enjoyed visiting the new offices of Business Services and the Nature Zone at an open house held to celebrate their new home in the Kemper Street train station.

The two-mile long Kemper Station Trail is a vital link connecting residents of Midtown to the Blackwater Creek Natural Area and Bikeway. The trail is completely paved and handicapped accessible, and joins the Blackwater Creek Bikeway near its juncture with the Point of Honor trail. The trailhead is along Park Street, adjacent to the Kemper Street train station. Trail maps are available in the Business Services offices, open from 9 am-5 pm, Monday-Friday.

Be sure to check out the new Kemper Station Trail soon, and remember...trails are great places to share!
